HOPING TO PREVENT THREATENED DISRUPTION

DEMOCRATS TO CONTEST RESERVATIONS

PLAN SOLID FRONT AND FIGHT FOR PROGRAM

Leaders Rely on Some Mild Reservationists Among Republicans For Aid

MORE SPEED EXPECTED IN ACTION ON TREATY

Hitchcock Says That Early Congress Adjournment Not Expected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee conferred today to consider how far they could go in making concessions on treaty reservations.

Senators said after the conference that no progress was made at the first meeting and another conference will be held tonight.

Senator Hitchcock said that he recently wrote Dr. Grayson that no conference with the president would be necessary for at least 10 days or two weeks. He added that there is no hope of early adjournment and declared that plans have been laid for a prolonged fight over the treaty.

According to Hitchcock, Democratic senators are endeavoring to present a united front when the foreign relations committee meets tomorrow to give formal consideration to reservations now being drafted.

Democratic leaders indicated today that they will refuse to agree to the reservation program of the Republicans and will attempt to force their own program through the senate, relying on the mild reservationists among the Republicans for support.

With formal reading of the treaty completed, action on the pact is expected to move more swiftly. The Johnson and Moses amendment, remaining proposed textual changes, were before the senate today. No action is expected before tomorrow or Thursday on the former.

Agreement on Text

Republicans are said to be practically agreed on the text of the reservations including one covering the recently defeated Shantung amendment. This reservation would declare that the United States reserves complete freedom of action with respect to disputes arising between China and Japan over Shantung.

The pending Johnson amendment, if lost, will be touched on in a reservation which would retain to the United States the right to object to any league vote in which any empire cast, through its dominions more than one vote.

The reservation in article ten would allow the United States to take action to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any league member, only after congress had acted in a constitutional manner.

Reservations regarding the Monroe Doctrine, right of withdrawal from the league and control over domestic issues stand as planned some time ago.

An effort will be made to have the vote on reservations taken as part of the vote on the resolution of ratification so that a vote for ratification will mean a vote for reservations. The Democratic side, however, is planning its moves in the hope of avoiding this.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The largest financial undertaking by American bankers since the end of the war has been announced by J. P. Morgan and Company that they will float a $250,000,000 loan for the British government.

The loan will be in the form of three and ten year securities to retire the outstanding bonds of about $135,000,000 British government 5½ per cent notes maturing November 1. The rest of the issue will be made available to British merchants in this country to whom the government may sell dollar exchange.

ANTI-RED SIEGE OF PETROGRAD PROGRESSES

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The siege of Petrograd is progressing favorably for the anti-bolshevik forces, according to official and semi-official dispatches received here today.

A communique of the British war office said the capture of Gatchina and Krasnoe Selo, to the southwest, had been confirmed and that cavalry detachments had completed the work of cutting off Petrograd from all communication with the interior.

An official dispatch from Helsinki reported General Yudenitch had occupied Pulkovo Hill, with its important observatory, while a report from Copenhagen said Yudenitch had moved his headquarters to Czarkoe Selo.

The bolsheviks, in addition to increasing their stores of ammunition and guns, moved great quantities of food into the city before it was surrounded, it was learned.

WILSON'S CONDITION IS STILL IMPROVING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson did not sleep so well last night, but his condition was improved this morning, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians at 11:30 a. m. today.

"The President's prostatic condition remains as before," said the statement. "Chemical examination of the blood shows the kidneys to be functioning normally. He did not sleep so well last night, but showed no signs of fatigue this morning."

The statement was signed by Drs. Grayson, Ruffin and Stitt.

THREE DEAD, 10 HURT WHEN TRAINS CRASH

500 LONGSHOREMEN GO BACK TO THEIR JOBS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Five hundred longshoremen went back to work today on the docks of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha Company. This Japanese firm, which has negotiated with the strikers independently of the Waterfront Employers' Union, granted practically all the demands of the men, reserving merely the right to choose its own men for permanent crews. The strike on the wharves of American firms continues.

KEEP GLANDS IN STORAGE, URGED BY DOCTOR

Municipal Icing Plants Are Advocated By Voronoff to Renew Youth

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Establishment of municipal cold storage plants in which alleged life-giving interstitial glands could be kept on ice to supply the demand for renewing human youth is advocated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, said to be the originator of the operation.

"If we receive the body of a hopelessly injured man while he is still alive, certain vital organs, especially the interstitial glands, will live for weeks in ice boxes," said Voronoff.

"In large cities, where there are many accidental deaths daily, why not take out the organs of the injured, after verifying they belong to sane persons—and put them in refrigeration for use when needed? Every city should have a hospital where such operations could be performed."

Must Overcome Prejudice

"Unfortunately there is still popular prejudice against such practices, but through natural evolution of science this sentimentality eventually will be replaced by the consciousness that helping mankind after death is a sacred task."

"What seems now a bold conception will become a current thing. Intelligence will be given to those who are lacking and strength to those who have lost it through deterioration of their organisms. Life will be made longer, more pleasant and more harmonious for all."

Voronoff said that even the dead "can donate an immense treasure, for when the heart ceases to beat the organs of the body do not die immediately. The bones keep their vitality for 18 hours after death and various glands from three to six hours. If a gland is extracted immediately after death and transferred to another body it may continue to accomplish its function."

Chicago Physician Given Gland Discovery Credit

SAN QUENTIN, Oct. 21.—American medical brains originated the operation whereby energy-giving glands are transplanted from warm human bodies to living men, Dr. Leo L. Stanley told the United Press today.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, the Paris doctor who has performed the operation, merely imitated Dr. G. Frank Lydston, of Chicago, said Dr. Stanley.

Stanley disclaimed any originality in his operations at the prison herein which he and his assistant, Dr. David Kelker have transplanted interstitial glands from ten hanged men to the bodies of ten prisoners with success in each case.

Dr. Stanley today wired Dr. Lydston, giving him full credit.

"My ten cases of transplantation were done according to your technique and after close study of your book. No originality is claimed by me."

Dr. Lydston had wired Dr. Stanley that "Voronoff and others are stealing my stuff."

Lydston performed his first operation of this nature five years ago. He is a native of California.

WILSON IS INFORMED OF TREATY SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson has been informed of the treaty situation in the senate through a letter from Senator Hitchcock, it was learned at the White House this morning. Wilson has been told of other matters, such as the threatened miners' strike and the deadlock in the industrial conference by means of reports laid before him by Secretary Tumulty.

EDITOR SAYS ARMY RULES PROPERLY AT GARY

Radical Nests Are Raided Daily; Fair Treatment Is Accorded to All

By HENRY BURGESS SNYDER
Editor of the Gary, Ind., Evening Post
Written for the United Press

GARY, Ind., Oct. 21.—There has been very little actual suppression of the news during military control at Gary. The newspapers were ordered at first to publish no news of raids on radicals but later the military decided that military control rather than martial law was in effect and the order was changed to a request. With one or two exceptions the request has been complied with.

The desire for secrecy in the army's dealings with radicals is based on the fact that new leads to further raids were being unearthed. If the facts of the raids are made public the military fears that some of its quarry would seek other fields.

And the army is not interested in chasing reds out of Gary. It wants to deport them. General Leonard Wood, who is actually in charge of the Gary situation, has very strong feelings regarding the treatment that should be meted out to radicals who are trying to undermine the government.

Situation Needs Attention

There can be no question that the situation demanded attention. This is a free country but we shall have to get over the impression that it is free for every agitated foreigner to tear down. I do not see how we can do without the army in crises such as this. There is no other agency to step in and bring order out of a threatened chaos.

Special police will not do; neither will the militia. Both were tried out in Gary and labor was very antagonistic to both. When the regulars rolled in by motor truck they were received with cheers by the strikers. Many of the strikers had been in the army and they felt they would get a square deal. Whether this feeling will continue, only the course of the strike will tell. Even now some of the more radical labor leaders are charging General Wood is playing politics.

But this charge on the part of the radicals is easily understood. The army has followed every radical lead and has raided dozens of houses and meeting places.

Each night dozens of suspects are brought in for examination. They are all men of alien birth. It is no uncommon occurrence for them to hand out a union card with one hand and an I. W. W. membership card with the other. Many of them are so ignorant they do not know the difference between the I. W. W. and the A. F. of L.

That is the problem of Gary today. That is the problem of Gary today as it is the problem of other industrial centers. And it is a problem that can only be solved by the army as the situation now stands. Conservative leaders know this.

The Central Labor Union News, organ of organized labor in Gary, said recently:

"The army authorities came to Gary at an opportune time. Their rule has been the fairest and best imaginable. The traditions of the army have been built upon methods of absolute justice to all and are being carried out here in such a way that no one can complain. Men who have been heckled in the past for imagined disloyalty and have had an opportunity to be heard, have been cleared and permitted to go their way."

"No rough house methods are used and no brutality of any kind used. If you are innocent you have nothing to fear, but if you are guilty you will be found out. In fact it is justice as it should be practiced at all times. That is what the army rule is and hundreds of strikers attest to the truth of these remarks."

Square Deal for Labor Is Urged By Rockefeller Jr.

Photographer Learns That Millionaire Wraps Strings Around Shoe Tops

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has surprised many who do not know him by the stand he has taken for the working man at the President's Round Table Industrial Conference now in session here. Mr. Rockefeller, who is a big employer and many times millionaire by word and deed has shown himself to be in sympathy with the man who works with his hands and Rockefeller wants to see him get a square deal and something more out of life than a joyless existence.

Rockefeller was chatting with Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, on the steps of the Pan-American building the other day when a photographer took a snapshot of them. The photographer discovered when he developed and examined his picture that Mr. Rockefeller wraps his shoe laces twice around his shapots before he ties them, which struck him as a bit unconventional for a man of millions.

SPARGO IS PREPARING CODE OF PRINCIPLES

John Fitzpatrick Declares Gary's Utterances Raised Morale of Strikers

By RALPH F. COUCH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson today drafted a letter to the industrial conference. Secretary Lane, chairman of the conference, said he expected to read the letter to the conference before adjournment today.

Wilson's letter is with regard to the threatened disruption of the conference it was learned at the White House. It was said Lane would use the letter if he considers it necessary. The letter which is two pages and a half, typewritten, was dictated by the president from his bed. He signed it with lead pencil.

Secretary Tumulty carried the letter to Lane for the President. The letter, it was said, is considered private from the President to Lane, but Lane may use it if he considers it wise.

President Wilson's letter followed a visit to the White House of Chairman Lane of the conference, Bernard Baruch, member of the public group and Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the committee of fifteen.

To Prevent Withdrawal

Lane said he would use his own discretion about reading it to the conference. It was written on the theory, he said, that there was some danger of certain members, or elements in the conference withdrawing and it was intended to prevent that. Personally, he said he did not feel there is real danger of this and said it might not be necessary to read the letter.

John Spargo, socialist and writer, today was working to bring capital and labor nearer together in the conference.

Spargo was preparing a complete code of basic principles of industrial relations which he hopes to introduce and have the conference adopt principle by principle.

The code contains about 2500 words and takes up the steel strike, the threatened coal strike and other industrial disturbances only in an addendum.

"After we decide on general principles for government of industrial relations, it will then be the logical time to take up specific disturbances," said Spargo.

Means Fresh Start

Spargo planned to introduce his code immediately after a vote on collective bargaining if the conference fails to agree on that long discussed subject. The code includes a plan to table all proposals that have been introduced in the conference and make a fresh start.

Spargo has laid his plan before Chairman Lane, members of the public group, including John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, members of the labor group and others.

John Fitzpatrick, leader of the steel strikers, visited the national industrial conference today to confer with members of the labor group.

Cities suggested as mail stops in the proposed mail route are: New York, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Carson City and San Francisco. Emergency landing fields, it was said, might be established at Bellefonte, Pa.; Bryan, Ohio; Des Moines, Cheyenne and Battle Mountain, Nev.

WILSON WRITES STATE RECORDS TO INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE SHOW HIM AS CITIZEN

made yesterday by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, Fitzpatrick said:

"Gary's statement raised the morale of the strikers. We're stronger today as one consequence of the statement."

Fitzpatrick did not see the conference in session because he arrived during a recess that was taken almost immediately after the morning session opened. The recess was taken to enable the labor group to vote on a new amendment proposed by the public group to the collective bargaining resolution now in the hands of the central committee of fifteen. Members of the public group said it was intended to guarantee to workers in any factory the right to belong to any organization they might select.

Denies Arbitration Asked

Fitzpatrick denied the steel strikers have asked arbitration of the strike.

"We are so confident of the justice of our cause, though, that we would be willing to submit our case to any man or board," he said.

The resolution introduced in the industrial conference seeking appointment of a board to end the strike was intended to "adjust the strike" according to Fitzpatrick.

Vote on the collective bargaining question seemed certain to occur in the conference today. The central committee was to meet at 9:30 a. m. to prepare its report to the conference on the collective bargaining proposal being discussed. This proposal, introduced more than a week ago, has been discussed and revised by the employers' group which has been working on it almost continuously since Friday. Employers last night hoped to reach an agreement on it. The employers' decision was to be made known early today through the central committee's report. If the committee reports an agreement on the collective bargaining, the proposal will come to a vote immediately on the conference floor.

SERVED 27 YEARS IN PRISON, CAUGHT AGAIN

MORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 21.—With a record of twenty-seven years spent in prison, William Rinker of Norristown is a problem for Presiding Judge Swartz to solve.

The judge said in court that the prison inspectors are convinced that further incarceration will be of no avail, that when he is in jail Rinker is a model prisoner and is all right outside except when he gets drunk, when he reverts to stealing—unconsciously, he claims.

Rinker has been out of jail two years, after serving a five-year sentence for larceny. Less than a month ago he was found at 3 o'clock in the morning with a bag of shoes. In pleading guilty to receiving stolen goods Rinker said that after a fellow who he didn't know had plied him with whiskey, he handed Rinker the bag, whose contents Rinker did not know.

Rinker's latest employer, Frank R. Heavner, a builder, told the court he is willing to take Rinker back and act as parole officer. The shoes found in his bag had been stolen from the store of Sarah Goldberg, Norristown, by breaking a show window.

COMPROMISE SOUGHT TO PREVENT STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A plea for a compromise to avert the coal strike threatened for November 1, was made by Secretary of Labor Wilson to the coal operators and miners who met here today.

Wilson urged the nearly 100 delegates present to show a conciliatory spirit, declaring a coal strike would badly hamper the nation's industrial interests. Before going into the meeting miner delegates declared they would stand by their demands for a wage increase, for the six-hour day and five-day week.

Operators who held meetings here yesterday and last night said they would not predict the outcome of the conference.

GROGERS CHARGE PACKERS GIVEN PRIVILEGES

Allege Refrigerator Cars Used to Ship Goods In Competition

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Practically all of the big railroads, leading packers and the wholesale grocers of the United States will be represented at the hearing that will open here tomorrow before the Interstate Commerce Commission over which Chairman Clyde B. Aitchison of Washington, D. C., will preside.

In all 317 railroads are defendants in the bill filed by the National Wholesale Grocers' Association whose representatives will present evidence in support of charges that unfair privileges accorded the big packers by the railroads through special refrigerating car service constitute a menace destined ultimately to put the wholesale grocer potentially out of business unless relief is granted.

The packers, including Swift and Company, Armour and Company, Morris and Company, Wilson and Company, Cudahy Packing Company will participate in the legal controversy, taking sides with the railroads. They filed intervening petitions in behalf of the railroads following the filing of the suit.

The packers, who have entered extensively in the grocery business are permitted by the railroads to ship grocery products—which do not require refrigeration—in refrigerator cars with fresh meats. These cars are dispatched with great speed, oftentimes on passenger time schedule. Wholesale grocers are not accorded such special service in portions of the country and must use the ordinary freight system.

The grocers are seeking relief in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to cause the railroads to withdraw from the packers the undue privilege of shipping groceries in so-called peddler cars with fresh meats.

Officials of the wholesale grocery association, which comprises wholesalers in every state in the Union, do not question the right of packers to ship fresh meats and perishable packing house products by the special refrigerator car service. That is conceded as essential and beneficial to the health and welfare of the public. On the other hand they are asking that the packers and the grocers be placed on an equal plane in the shipment of grocery products.

Otherwise, according to Clifford Thorne, counsel for the wholesale grocers, the packers will soon dominate the grocery business as they now do the meat packing business.

Intervening petitions in behalf of the grocers have been filed by the state wholesale grocery associations of Missouri, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma.

There will be twenty lawyers representing the various interests involved. The grocers will be represented by Clifford Thorne of Chicago, Breed, Abbott and Morgan of New York City; R. C. Fulbright of Houston, Tex., and Ralph Merriam of Chicago. George A. Henshaw of Oklahoma City will represent the Oklahoma Wholesale Grocers' Association. Edgar Watkins of Atlanta will represent the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association.

The railroads have a committee of lawyers to defend their interests as follows: James Stillwell, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania lines; K. F. Burgess, Chicago, C. B. and Q.; C. S. Burg, St. Louis, M. K. and T.; Lucien H. Cooke, Roanoke, Va., Norfolk and Western, and E. W. Proctor, Atlanta, Ga.

The big Chicago packers and their associated interests will have seven lawyers on hand in their behalf.

CLAIMS FIRST USE OF TYPE PHOTO PROCESS

BERKELEY, Oct. 21.—The precedence in the use of process worker's plate as a substitute for type printing is claimed here by Prof. O. M. Washburn, assistant professor of classical archaeology.

According to University of California officials, Prof. Washburn produced a book in 1917 by photographic process. The book contained over a hundred pages and due to the need of one or more small photo-engravings on each page, Prof. Washburn found himself facing a cost of $825 for 100 books. By use of the photographic process the book cost $150 per hundred copies, a saving of $675, he said.

Prof. Washburn used a typewriter with a greater diversity of type faces than contained in the standard makes.

DRENCH WOMAN WITH WATER AS OPENED DOOR

Boys Responsible For Unkindly Act Against East 2nd Street Resident

A dash of cold water in the face is the reception Mrs. C. M. Wood received last night about 9 o'clock when she opened her front door in response to a knock on the door.

It was the work of four boys, only one of whom was recognized by Mrs. Wood. He has been in trouble here and is under jurisdiction of the juvenile court. He is now living in Los Angeles, but has been in town a day or two. He could not be located by officers this morning.

When Mrs. Wood opened the door, a bucketful of water was thrown on her by one of the boys. Why she was treated in this manner, she does not know. She knows of no reason why the boys should treat her in such manner. She has had no trouble with boys, according to the statement of officers.

AMUSEMENTS

HUMAN APPEAL STRONG IN ALICE JOYCE PICTURE

The human appeal and tremendous dramatic power of "The Third Degree," which made it one of the greatest stage successes of its day, are splendidly maintained in Vitaphone's screen version of the Charles Klein drama which will be seen at the Princess theater tonight and tomorrow.

Alice Joyce has the stellar role of Annie Sands, and the beautiful and talented star never appeared to better advantage. Her role is that of the waitress bride of a college youth, who crushes the power of her millionaire father-in-law, sworn to destroy her, and of an all-powerful police inquisition to save her young husband from death for a murder he did not commit, but of which he was tortured to confess.

Tom Terriss has given the picture a splendid direction, and in the capable supporting cast are Gladden James, Anders Randolph, Miss Hedda Hopper, Herbert Evans, George Backus, J. T. Wade, L. Rogers Lytton and Edward McGuire.

NEWLYWEDS SURPRISED BY NOISY SERENADERS

IRVINE, Oct. 21.—One evening recently a gay chivalric party of about thirty, armed with tubs, cans, plow shares and bells, surprised Wayman Johnson and his bride. They are living on the lease formerly owned by Mr. Wilmot.

The party grouped around the piano and enjoyed singing the songs of the day.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served.

WILL CONSIDER LAWS FOR USE OF CABLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Legislation providing for the commercial use of naval wireless on the Pacific coast during the present cable congestion to the far east will be considered this week by a sub-committee of the house merchant marine committee.

As a basis for the legislation, the bill of Representative Greene, Massachusetts, chairman of the committee, will be used. It declares against government ownership of radio stations but provides that the secretary of the navy, temporarily may devote the naval wireless, under rules and rates that he shall prescribe, to commercial messages.

This is to be allowed only until additional privately owned stations are built so that communication across the Pacific can be carried on without delay.

VISCOUNTESS ASTOR TO SUCCEED HUSBAND

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The new Viscountess Astor may succeed her husband in the house of commons, it was learned today.

Elevation of Waldorf Astor to the peerage through the death of his father, Viscount (William Waldorf) Astor, has created a vacancy in this district necessitating a bye election. According to reliable reports, influential conservatives are urging the viscountess to become a candidate.

LAGUNA BEACH NOTES

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 21.—Excellent luck attended the crawfishermen on the opening of the season in Laguna. Oscar Farman taking six hundred pounds the first day, and the other fishermen proportionately large amounts.

The Metro Company is working every night at its location at Arch Beach. The employees have the boat, which they built at Balboa, fast on a reef and have rescued many "passengers" off of her, by means of a breeches buoy. The tides have interfered somewhat with the work, being low when a high tide would have been desirable. The powerful spot lights, turned into the sea, bring out a bewildering display of color, and the fish, attracted by the glare, add greatly to the beauty of the scene by leaping out of the sea in a shower of sparkling waterdrops, which look like jewels. Wild ducks, blinded by the lights, have flown down low several times. Saturday night a counter-attraction was staged by a Ford, which caught afire in a mysterious manner and burned merrily until one of Laguna's young men became an impromptu fire department and administered a bucket of water, which extinguished the flames.

Conway Griffith left Saturday for Victorville to paint. He will remain there until the first of November and will then be joined by Robert Evans. From Victorville they will go out onto the desert between the Santa Fe railroad and the Colorado river.

Mrs. Emma Keepers of Alhambra spent Saturday and Sunday at The Breakers. Mrs. Keepers formerly owned the "Log Cabins" on the Heights. She has recently returned from Carmel, where she has purchased a place.

Mrs. Frank Champion entertained with a luncheon on Friday. Dr. and Mrs. Howe are down for a few days. They expect to leave before very long for San Francisco for the winter.

CAMP'S ADVICE

Endless columns of newspaper space have been devoted to telling people how to live in order to preserve their health. If one may judge from the preponderance of subjects treated by writers of that kind of matter, the most important of all of the subjects considered by them may be summarized in the title, "How Women May Retain Their Youthful Beauty." Of course, the answer to the problem that points out that good health and cheerfulness are the biggest factors in retaining beauty is the best answer.
Now comes Walter Camp, famous football coach and athletic instructor, with suggestions to men over 45 who have begun to feel themselves slipping in their strength and agility.
Just why he labelled his advice "for men past 45" we do not know. His advice would seem to apply equally as well to women who would retain their youthful beauty and to men of whatever age who would keep or regain health.
Camp's advice is given as follows:
Drink without eating and eat without drinking.
Getting angry makes black marks on the health.
Never let a day pass without covering four miles on foot.
Dress cool when you walk and warm when you ride.
Your nose, not your mouth, was given you to breathe through.
Open windows don't make half as many colds as closed ones do.
Loose clothes, loose gloves, easy shoes, spell comfort and health.
Don't sit still with wet feet. Walk until you have a chance to change.
Five glasses of water a day—none with meals—will make you free of the doctors.
Sleep woos the physically tired man; she flouts the mentally or nervously exhausted.
Wearing the same weight of underwear the year round will save you a lot of colds.
See how high you can hold your head and how deeply you can breathe whenever you are out of doors.
When you rob the tramway company by walking you add double the value of your fare saved to your deposit of health.
Blood pressure does not come to the men who walk a lot out of doors; instead it looks for those who sit and eat a lot indoors.
Nature won't stand for overdrafts any more than your bank.

STAY IN SCHOOL

The continuation school, which is planned for the benefit of children who leave work before completing the grammar grades, or without any high school education, and which insures that these children will be given at least partial school instruction up to the normal age of graduation from the high school, is steadily gaining favor.
Careful tests have shown that the boy or girl of eighteen who left school even as late as the age of fifteen is not the equal in educational equipment of the average child of twelve. He loses very soon most of the learning he acquired in his earlier years.
These three-fourths ignorant, one-fourth educated youngsters are a menace to the welfare of the nation. They offer the best field in the world for the work of the agitator. Much of the present unrest is believed to be due to the presence in our social system of many thousands of these unfinished products of our inefficient educational schemes.
It is not only to the advantage of the child, but to the advantage of America that boys and girls have their educational period prolonged.

BEST FOR THE SOUL

The National Catholic War Council has been running an advertisement in the newspapers, headed, "Christianity Alone Can Save Society." A Presbyterian minister in a recent sermon called that advertisement "the most valuable contribution made toward the solution of world problems arising from the war." He says:
"Those measures which are healing the physical and moral wounds of the war, which are restoring men to health, rebuilding villages and bringing law and order out of restless conditions are only temporary remedies. Only Christ can bring us in touch with the immortal."
It is true, without shadow of question, that the world is full of restlessness for which worldly remedies yield no balm. The great strife of the past five years has given way to a multitude of smaller strifes, all contributing to the unsettlement of the mind of the world and of the individual.
What is needed is "that peace which the world cannot give"—that peace which is found only in the harmony of the individual spirit with the divine.

One way to secure it is to turn away from the disquieting reading of the day to the great repositories of human and divine wisdom found in the Scriptures. In the Psalms, in the still more ancient Bhagavad-Gita, one finds a sense of immortal security which quiets the fears and cares of the restless today. Upon the altars of divine wisdom may the swallow find the place where she may bear her young.
Another way is to turn to the groves which were "God's first temples." The beauty of the season's turn is eternal. The hills are rock-ribbed, ancient and undisturbed. The firmament showeth his handiwork. Night after night giveth knowledge. All things pass. Storm and stress are but temporary. Underneath are the everlasting arms.

Rowell's Position
Pasadena Post

Doubtless Senator Johnson was perturbed by the frank assurance of his friend Chester Rowell that opposition to the League of Nations was a mistake. It must also have been disconcerting to the senator to have Rowell, without sign of passion or acrimony, analyze the Johnson arguments, leaving nothing of them but a volume of sound.
In the circumstances and considering the habits of politicians, it is not strange that an effort should be made to discredit the Rowell position. This effort takes the form of a dispatch from San Francisco alleging that Rowell had admitted that in case of a dispute between England and the United States, both of these powers would be excluded from voting, but the British colonies would have a vote each.
Johnson and Borah profess to be delighted with this view, and hasten to announce it as coinciding with the one they have the honor to be supporting. The possibility that they are a little fast is worth considering.
Rowell may never have said anything like that attributed to him. If he said anything approximating it, it may have been so qualified, that to quote it without also quoting the qualification, would be misleading and unfair; which both the dissenting senators assure the public is no part of their campaign plan.
There remains the chance that if Rowell ever made the statement, he was in error. No question could be tried by the assembly, and it is only in the assembly that the British colonies are given a vote.
Anyhow, information concerning whatever may be said by an advocate of the treaty, might not see through the intelligence of an anti-treaty advocate, and emerge with integrity unimpaired.

Cheerfulness
Pasadena Star-News

The apostle of sunshine and good cheer in the schoolroom has arisen. He is William McAndrew, associate superintendent of the New York schools and a recognized authority in educational affairs. He is not the only apostle of this type, by any means. There are thousands of teachers who exemplify what Mr. McAndrew advocates. Here is his school-room creed:
"Laugh; don't be a poor, wizened sister of sorrow, who suppresses laughter as something forbidden. When you scold hold a mirror before you or sing immediately after a verse of 'A Perfect Day,' or keep a record of scolding and commendations. Be glad you're alive. Quit the weary, downcasten stuff."
Blunt words, but wholesome advice. This was spoken to the California Teachers' Association. In justice to teachers, it should be said that there are very few "sisters of sorrow" among their ranks. Here in California the typical teacher is a cheerful, whole-souled body who radiates mental and spiritual brightness.
The disposition and temperament of the teacher are of paramount importance. The characteristics of the teacher have great influence upon pupils. It is vital to the good of school work that teachers be of serene, cheerful disposition and that they be in rapport with those whom they instruct.

Our Forests
San Francisco Chronicle

United States Forester Henry S. Graves, who is now in the city, states that from now on the products of the forests of California and the Northern Pacific coast are assured of a worldwide market. This will be no news to our lumbermen, whose only worry is to get out the material and get it transported.
Lumbering in this state until quite recently has been exceedingly wasteful. At the tail of every saw-mill a fire burned continually, getting rid of valuable material which it would not pay to cull out. A great part of the tree was left where it fell to be burned off sufficiently to permit logging operations, incidentally destroying all the young growth and leaving what was once a stately forest a scene of desolation. When the forest service was established and systematic forestry was urged upon private owners they simply laughed at it because the lumber cut and saleable would not pay for the work.
The American forests are disappearing at a rate which would have been thought impossible a quarter of a century ago. While the time has not yet come when the intensive forestry of Central Europe is economically possible here, there is the beginning of the practice which will lead to it. There cannot be a perfect forestry until there is a demand for the wood for heating purposes. And that will only come with a dense population. We are, however, taking better care of our forests and expect as landowners desire to realize, are possibly more interested in the conservation of our forests than in their exploitation for distant markets.

Still Able to Take Nourishment

Vice President's Position

(From Philadelphia Bulletin)
The constitution plainly contemplates the possibilities of such a situation as now exists in the White House when it provides that:
"In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president."
There is no doubt whatever that for the moment the president is unable to perform his executive functions as the head of the government, and that his case suggests the clause of the constitution as regards "inability to discharge the powers and duties" of his office. It is solely for such contingencies of vacancy or inability in the chief office of the government that the post of vice president was created.
But in the course of one hundred and thirty-two years of the existence of the government there has never been a time when any of the occupants of that office have been summoned to perform the duties of the presidency, save the five occasions when death had already created an actual vacancy.
It has been not altogether unskillful that presidents have been smitten by illness and have been temporarily incapacitated for the active and continuous discharge of their official duties, but at such times there have usually been no serious embarrassments in the management of the affairs of the government, and it has never been found necessary to have recourse to the extreme procedure of calling the vice president to take upon himself, for even a single day, the functions of the presidency.
During the two and a half months of the complete prostration of Garfield after he had been stricken by the assassin's bullet, there was much consideration given by the public to the question whether Vice President Arthur would, or should administer the presidency. But Arthur was in the forefront of the stalwart faction in the midst of one of the bitterest of political feuds and James G. Blaine, who was secretary of state, and who was the master spirit of the Garfield administration, readily held the cabinet together in shaping the course of the government at a time of the year when ordinarily the public business is largely of a routine nature. When Garfield finally passed away and Arthur entered the White House, the country had become somewhat prepared by patience and composure.
Often in the past few years we have had some notable proofs of the fundamental stability of the American people—their readiness to meet a crisis or to perform a tremendous duty in the spirit and temper of a nation fit for self-government. Another proof of this is to be found today in the fact that although the government has been virtually without its constitutional head in the past ten days or while some of the greatest national and international questions in its history are pressing upon it, and that he may be constrained to withdraw for a much longer time from participation in its direction, the anxiety of the good men of all parties is tempered by patience and composure.

Worth While Verses

LAMENTATION

Lo! I have worshipped beauty all my days;
The stars have been as lovers and the night,
Fairer than thought. Trees, pictures, music, light,
Old crumbling sunset and the lilac haze
On summer shadowy hills—these were a maze
Of loveliness with hushed and sandaled feet
To wander, pausing where a brook was sweet,
Or in lush meadows marveling to gaze.

And I have known high battles with the wind
And felt the mystic tang of wet, kissed lips,
And prayed, at dawn, 'Mas! That these should pass!
Lecturing on poets to a college class,
Behold, I aid the Progress of the Mind—
O why should beauty suffer such eclipse?
—From Six Academic Sonnets, by Howard Mumford Jones in Contemporary Verse.

OBSERVATIONS

If there were more kings like Albert, Americans would thing more of royalty.
It is probably too much to hope that employees in gum manufacturing plants will strike.
The steel strikers and the steel trust will both get tired of their vacation pretty soon.
Ocean freight rates have gone down lately. In the natural course of events, we may expect imported goods to cost more than ever.
The cost of the British railway strike is estimated at $250,000,000. That would have paid a good deal of the interest on the British war debt.
Ty Cobb again heads the batting list. Who said conditions were not normal?

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

For Good Measure
By the Editor

It's funny what different creatures we are, collectively and individually,—how, as a member of a mob, a man will do things he wouldn't think of doing as an individual, and how, as a member of a community (a city or county or state) he will leave undone things that, as an individual he would not neglect a single day.
Just in a small physical way there is an object lesson along this line on North Sycamore street. There is a hole in the sidewalk right opposite the north entrance to the Public Library yard—a big hole—and it's been there long enough for grass to grow in it.
An hour's work and a dollar's worth of material would repair it, but it is everybody's business and, therefore, nobody's—at least nobody attends to it—and the hole remains and grows larger.

I have crossed the "Great American Desert" many times—all the way from the Canadian part of it to the Mexican section—and ever the same talk among the passengers on the train—"it's a God-forsaken country," etc. Years ago somebody asked what God made it for, anyway, and somebody else replied that he made it to carry railroad tracks on which people could get to California.

Me, I like the desert. And so do a few others. Some of these, including myself, have tried to describe its beauty and its charm, but for the most part with very little success. It's a feeling more than a scene.

One of the best expressions of the desert's charm that I have seen are some verses by Helen Kelsey Wood, which I found in a newspaper. Here they are:

THE DESERT ARTIST
A vivid canvas—vast and grand
Painted by the Almighty hand;
A riot of color whose rainbow dyes Float, far flung o'er the earth and skies;
A gray-green growth by soft winds
fanned;
Strange cactus freaks of magic land.
The far off hills like Titans' pose
Oh! Desert of beauty and might.
All wrapped in veils of ruby-rose.
Gold and scarlet of sunset fly
O'er snow peaks, in turquoise sky.
Glory of day, splendor of night,

That was a hot shot the Rev. J. A. Stevenson gave us—the town and the "Register" at the M. and M. luncheon last Wednesday. It sounded like he thought we were "asleep at the switch," so to speak, in the matter of community advertising.

In a way he was right and in a way he was wrong.

Santa Ana and Orange county never have spent enough money for community advertising, and a part of what has been so expended has been almost wasted. However, there has been a gradual improvement in this respect, both as to amount and quality of advertising, and no doubt a really adequate advertising budget and program will be provided and carried out as soon as conditions are more propitious.

It is undoubtedly true that in the matter of all-round resources, attractions and advantages, Orange County has few, if any, equals, and no superiors; and it would seem that conditions for telling the world about them are just right and ripe. Taking this view of the matter, the "Register" has made all plans for the publication of a special community advertising edition and is impatiently awaiting—

First, the improvement of housing conditions. We cannot consistently invite people to come here to live until we have houses for them to live in.

Second, the arrival of the "Register's" new press, which will enable us to produce a large special edition much more satisfactorily and economically.

Third, the securing of a contract by which we can be assured that the necessary paper can be had. It may not be generally known, but it is a fact that not only is the cost of print paper almost prohibitive, or destructive of the publishing business, but that it is very difficult to get an ample supply at any price.

Believe me, Mr. Stevenson, whenever it is possible for the "Register" to do so, it will put over the biggest and best community advertising stunt you ever saw.

A POPULAR STUDY

When I grow up and go to college,
I know just what to take to give Me knowledge.
My sister goes and, my, she knows
A lot, and when the girls come
To our house, she tells them
All about one thing she takes.
And it must be the best of all,
For sometimes it's a moonlight
Ride or show, or taffy-pull,
And chocolate creams, such lots
And lots, and soda-water all the
Time, with hikes and auto rides,
and
Once she went in a flying machine
Most up to the sky, and then came Down and went to town to see a Circus.
Then she goes to a dance or a Great big chicken dinner. She Says it's fine to be in line for Everything that's going on. I Think so, too, and she thinks it's Nice to study something you do
Just perfect. My father said I Hoped that sister improved her time
And stuck to books; but if he Knew all this I guess he'd think
She did. Mebbly she's bashful
and Don't tell Dad how hard she works
And even sits up nights to Keep her dates. Sister says that Gets you somewhere. Dad says I
Better learn one thing well;
I think so, too, and I'll just Take dates when I go to college.

Los Angeles Times.)

Afternoon Wedding

At a quiet ceremony read yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McArthur, of North Main street, Miss Hilda Gibbons became the bride of John Ragan of Orange. The service was read by Rev. N. L. Pearson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Orange.

For the occasion the bride was attired in an attractive dark cloth suit with becoming accessories and wore a corsage bouquet of Cecil Brunners and fern. The couple was unattended. Following the wedding ceremony refreshments were served to the immediate relatives of the two families and a few intimate friends at a table appropriately decorated with orange blossoms, white roses and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Ragan soon left for an indefinite trip.

Upon their return they will make their home in Villa Park, where the groom has an orange grove.

Mrs. Ragan was one of the popular members of the class of 1916 graduating from the Santa Ana high school and an exceptionally bright young woman. She has held a responsible position with the Edison company for several years, where her daily presence will be greatly missed.

The bride's appealing personality and the groom's sterling qualities have won a large circle of friends, whose interest and best wishes will follow them through life.

Twins Celebrate

Irene and Helen O'Brien, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Will O'Brien, celebrated their tenth birthday with a party Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon quickly passed with games, and before the merry little party dispersed, they were served with light refreshments, including a birthday cake with ten gleaming pink candles.

The ladies attending were: Misses Justine Palmer, Virginia Bailey, Ruth Gardner, Gladys Cope, Louise Riggs.

Marcia Keeler, Veda Powers, Irene and Helen O'Brien.

Washington P. T. A.

The Washington Parent Teachers' Association will meet tomorrow afternoon, when Rev. J. A. Stevenson will address the company. All the parents are requested to attend and to bring their friends. Miss Lela Heil's class will have charge of the music.

Dinner and Theater

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Vandermaast were hosts Sunday at a dinner party for several of their friends.

Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Platt, Mrs. George Platt, Dr. J. J. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Prince, Mrs. Bradley, little daughter Frances of Los Angeles, Miss Newell, also of Los Angeles, and Erron Jacobs.

Last evening the same company drove to Los Angeles to attend the theater.

Informal Card Party

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Peek informally entertained a few of their friends last evening with "five hundred."

At the completion of the games prizes were awarded Messrs. Nat Neff and Roy Russell and following the guests were invited to the breakfast room where they were served light refreshments, repeating the Halloween colors used in the decoration of the home.

Those participating in the evening's enjoyment were Messrs. and Mmes. Roy Russell, Nat Neff, Charles Kendall, Jr., and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Peek.

Sixtieth Anniversary

Saturday was an eventful day in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Allen of 329 East Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton. It was their sixtieth wedding anniversary and in honor of the event the Masons and Eastern Stars, of which they have been members for many years, called at their home to pay their respects, showering them with many beautiful flowers, ornamental and useful presents in an endeavor to express the esteem in which the couple are held by their numerous friends.

From 9 a. m. until 10 p. m. the "bride and groom" of nearly eighty years received the people at the home of their granddaughter, with whom they make their home. Mrs. Allen suffered a slight stroke a couple of years ago and is unable to get around much, but otherwise she is healthy and neither eyesight nor hearing is impaired. Her hair is snow white, but her eyes are bright and sparkle like those of a girl and she speaks more like a lady of 30. She seemingly looks forward to the new home her husband is building on the back of the lot, with all the joy of a young bride.

Mr. Allen is past 80, but he is as spry and healthy as most men at 40. They possess the secret of all long and happy living, for they seem to see nothing but the bright side of life, leaving all trouble and care behind, and there seems to be no valid reason why they should not live to see many more years of happy married life, which their friends so earnestly desire for them.

Before coming to Fullerton ten years ago, they resided for 36 years in Minnesota. They were married at Dellefield, Wis., on October 18, 1859. They have no living children but they have one grandson who is connected with the government printing office in Washington, and a granddaughter with whom they live. They also have three great-grandchildren.

The wedding cake, on which there were sixty candles, was made by a granddaughter and decorated by a great-granddaughter.

They have lived through the most eventful years in the history of the world, seeing the United States grow to be the ranking nation of the globe.

Entertain at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schmidt of 2055 North Main, were hosts at a dinner yesterday in honor of Miss Julia Noggle of Pomona, who is to become the bride of Raymond Sawyer.

It was an attractive yellow dinner with the autumn colors and golden rod used for decoration purposes.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Noggle, Misses Julia and Bess Noggle and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gopp of Pomona, Mrs. Emily Karr of Long Beach, F. A. Schmeil of New York and Mrs. Oliver Remsburg.

Lost: My black handbag, last Saturday evening on stage route between Orange and Santa Ana. Letters within in identify. Phone W. A. Murray, Hotel Stowell, Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser Home

Dr. and Mrs. Harry F. Zaiser arrived home yesterday after several weeks spent in the east, where Dr. Zaiser attended clinics and lectures in the Mayo Brothers hospital in Rochester and afterwards with Mrs. Zaiser, visited relatives and friends. Mrs. Zaiser visited her mother, Mrs. W. F. Ihler, in Burlington, Ia., where she met her sister, Mrs. Lewis H. Warren of North Dakota, who accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser to Santa Ana, where she will remain for some time.

The stop at Grand Canyon was made even more than usually interesting by the presence there of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, their son, the Duke of Brabant and the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland. Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser had an opportunity to greet all the visiting royalties and were very pleasantly impressed with their simplicity and friendliness.

A warm welcome to the doctor and to Mrs. Zaiser had been prepared by the employees of the county hospital, where Dr. Zaiser is superintendent.

Social Evening

The Delta Alpha class of the First M. E. church held a social meeting at the home of the Misses Briney of 626 North Ross street, Saturday evening.

Their new teacher, Mrs. Leonard, and her husband met with them for the first time. A former teacher, Mrs. Edwards and Miss Lula Anderson, were guests of honor. Miss Anderson now lives in Los Angeles, and the members of the class enjoyed talking over old times with her.

The opportunity bag for the Good Will Industries of Mexican Work in Los Angeles was packed with the garments which the class members have been making.

After delicious refreshments, the party broke up at a late hour, having had a delightful time.

First Travellers Meet

The First Ebell Travellers met yesterday at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Ames. An article on the League of Nations from The Clubwoman was read and discussed, and also an article from this month's "American."

Mrs. J. P. Baumgartner, the section leader, was welcomed from her visit in the East.

Beautiful dahlias from the hostess' garden decked the rooms and were generously divided with the Travellers when they took their departure.

Appetizing refreshments were served during the social hour, which closed the meeting.

On the first Monday in November, the Travellers will be entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Baumgartner.

Present Day Club

The first meeting of the Present Day Club for this year is to be held tonight at the home of Judge Thomas. Rev. J. A. Stevenson is to be the speaker.

Tidball-Potts

A quiet wedding, but charming in its simplicity, was solemnized this morning at eleven o'clock, when Miss Virgil Potts became the bride of Glen Tidball, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tidball.

The ceremony was read by Rev. J. A. Stevenson at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Potts, on North Main street, in the presence of immediate members of the two families, Carol Zeenhuyzen, a friend from Los Angeles, singing, "I Love You Truly" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," accompanied by Mrs. Zeenhuyzen, who also played the wedding march, both Lohengrin and Mendelssohn.

For the occasion, the bride was simply attired in a pretty blue taffeta traveling suit and carried Cecil Brunner roses. The roses were also used in the decorations of the home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Tidball are well known and popular young people. Mr. Tidball, who has but recently been released from service, holds a responsible position with the Excelsior Dairy Company and upon their return from their wedding trip, he will take his bride to a home he has purchased at 1502 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Tidball was a student at the Cumnock School of Expression in Los Angeles and has real ability as a reader. She has been employed for a year or so at the Santa Ana Book Store, where her ready cheerfulness and natural strength of character have endeared her to a large number of people and among her more intimate acquaintances, she has a host of staunch friends.

It was regretted that the groom's brother, Charles Tidball, was unable to be here for the ceremony. He has been overseas for some time and is expecting to return home with his French bride at any time.

WILL OBSERVE FEAST DAY OF CAPISTRANO

Solemn High Mass Will Be Held In Aient Ruins
of Old Mission

Thursday, October 23, according to the Franciscan calendar, is the feast day of San Juan Capistrano, the brave old warrior monk who is the patron saint of the mission of San Juan Capistrano. On Thursday morning at ten o'clock a solemn high mass will be held in the ruins of the great stone church, which is one of the most picturesque links between California's romantic past and her more practical present.

Although the mission in the San Juan valley was first established in October, 1775, the great stone church, built by the Indian neophytes under the direction of a master mason from Culiacan, Mexico, was not dedicated until September 7, 1806. That was a great day in the history of the mission and neophytes and padres from many of the other missions and Spanish officers from the Presidios, were there to aid in a fitting celebration.

Quake Kills Over 30
On the day of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, December 8, 1812, during the celebration of the first mass, the building rocked and trembled in an earthquake. The great bell tower and the domes over the nave crashed in upon the worshippers, and over thirty were killed.

The domes over the sanctuary is still intact though have and transept are open to the sky. Much of the debris has been cleared away, and it is in this ruined church that the Feast of San Juan Capistrano will be celebrated on Thursday morning.

Father St. John O'Sullivan, the resident priest will be the celebrant. Two Franciscan fathers from San Luis Rey will be present—Father Dominic, O. F. M., and Father Andrew, O. F. M. Mass will be sung for the children's choir from the mission at San Luis Rey. The sermon will be preached by Rev. George W. Connor of Riverside.

The celebration of Mass in the gray old church will doubtless draw a hundred years, will doubtless draw many interested visitors to the mission town on Thursday.

CENSUS TAKERS TO ASK MANY QUESTIONS

Women Will Have to Tell
Their Ages; Work Starts
January 2

Will madam divulge her age?

Madam will.

The census taker goes to work January 2, 1920, and that is one of the questions the women of Orange county will have to answer.

What was your age last birthday? That is the way the question will be put to the housewife and a truthful answer will be necessary.

But it isn't the only question. There are others the enumerators will have in reserve, some of them rather direct, and all will have to be answered.

Here are a few of them: What is your house number? What is your relation to the head of the family?

Is your home your own or rented? If your home is your own, is it free or mortgaged?

What was your age last birthday? Are you single, married, widowed or divorced?

When did you arrive in the United States?

Are you naturalized or alien? If naturalized, when?

Have you attended school any time since September 1, 1919?

Have you attended school any time since September 1, 1919?

Can you read?

Can you write?

Where were you born?

What is your mother tongue?

Where was your father born and what is his mother tongue? Your mother?

Can you speak English?

What is your trade, profession or particular kind of work?

To what industry or establishment does your work belong?

Are you an employer, a salary or wage worker, or working on your own account?

Fifteen million copies of the farm schedule have been ordered printed by the bureau of the census for use in gathering the agricultural statistics of the nation for the fourteenth decennial census. To facilitate the work of taking the census and promote accuracy large numbers of schedules will be distributed in advance of the enumerator's visit in order that the farmer may become familiar with the questions and be prepared to furnish promptly the required data.

The previous claim of the company was for 50 feet on each side of its tracks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The state department officials today were to take charge of the funeral arrangements of Count V. Macchi Di Cellere, Italian ambassador, who died at the Emergency hospital last night after a short illness.

Just a Beginner
"My first patient called on me today," said the young doctor. "He's rich, too."

"Congratulations!" replied the elderly doctor. "What was the matter with him?"

"Nothing. I couldn't find a thing wrong with him."

BITTER CASE IS WON IN COURT BY STATE

Highway Commission's Surveys Are Vindicated By Judge's Decisions

Judge George A. Sturtevant of the Superior court of San Francisco has just decided the case of E. T. Johnson, a state highway contractor, vs. the State of California, in favor of the state.

Johnson had a contract sometime ago with the State of California for the construction of a section of state highway in the Shasta River Canyon, between Hornbrook and Yreka in Siskiyou county. Johnson completed his contract, but entered a claim against the state, claiming that the surveys and estimates made by the engineers of the California Highway Commission were erroneous, and that claimant had performed work to the amount of $46,955.33, for which he had not been paid. The state's engineers, on the contrary, asserted that their work had been carefully done, and that Johnson had been fully compensated for his services. A trial lasting three weeks was held at San Francisco recently which was very bitterly contested by both sides—many engineers of the Pacific coast being called as expert witnesses.

Judge Sturtevant has just decided that the state's engineering was carefully done, and that no errors, so far as the testimony showed, were carried into the final estimate, and that he was bound to accept the final estimate as allowed by the California Highway Commission as final and conclusive in the case.

The decision is considered to be a complete vindication of the system of surveys devised and established by the California Highway Commission for the prosecution of state highway work in California. This system is quite closely followed by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, and by the highway departments of the different states. This is the first case in which the California Highway Commission's methods of highway surveying have been questioned.

The state was defended in this action by E. B. Power, assistant attorney general of California, and C. C. Carleton, attorney for the California Highway Commission.

CLEANLINESS BIG THING IN TRAINING

"Dirt is unwelcome on a merchant marine training ship," said Henry Avila of San Francisco, supervisor of the United States Shipping oBard. "One of the finest things the shipboard did when it fitted out its big steel training ships was to install enough modern shower baths so that every man on board could have an invigorating bath of warmed sea water every day."

"The rule of cleanliness first applies also to the spick-and-span sleeping quarters, and the preparation and serving of food. This may be one of the reasons why recruits who enroll in this attractive service may be sure of remaining healthy, hearty and happy. By going aboard big, modern cargo ships on completing their course of training, these young sailors are playing an important part in building up the American Merchant Marine," stated Avila.

Young Americans between ages of 18 and 35 years are eligible for enrollment into this service and the opportunities for rapid advancement, together with the high scale of wages now prevailing for all ratings should appeal strongly to all ambitious young men who have hopes of some day becoming officers in Uncle Sam's great merchant fleet. By applying to Enrolling Headquarters, Room 224, 369 Pine street, San Francisco, complete information, literature, etc., may be had.

WIFE OF GENERAL IS ARRESTED FOR THEFT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Two pairs of tiny baby shoes, and three pairs of little stockings are at police headquarters today, held as alleged evidence that Maria Carmen Garola stole for her unborn babe.

"I took them for my baby that will be here soon, and I don't know why I did it," Mrs. Garola sobbed to the police as she was released on $25 bail.

Mrs. Garola is the wife of General Garola of Madero's Mexican army. A local department store caused her arrest.

DYNAMITED IN SALVAGE WORK*Masts Hurlled From Boat Following Explosion Set For the PurposeA real boat explosion scene was filmed at Balboa Sunday afternoon when dynamite was discharged on the Fremont, the movie boat resting on the sands near the jetty. Wilson Brothers bought the boat for the salvage and an attempt was made to blow out the three masts. Two of the masts were blown out clean. The foremast was broken at the top only. The camera caught the result of the explosion and it will make a real honest to goodness boat explosion scene.The three-master is becoming more and more imbedded in the sand, each day witnessing the hull sinking a little deeper in the sand. A big crowd visited the beach Sunday to see the stranded vessel and the shore was pretty well lined with curious people when the blasts were exploded on the ship.The boat was built sixty-nine years ago and some of the lumber that already has been taken from the craft in the process of salvaging is said to be as good as the day it was put into the hull. Ropes, rigging, etc., have already been salvaged by Wilson Brothers and much valuable timber is expected to be saved.Balboa is alive with movie picture people now, there being at least three companies represented there. The Jesse Lasky company has a force of carpenters busy building a village set at the Palisades. The Homes Amusement company is working up a scene in a comedy and a bunch of Fox film artists is there for a set in a new production.ICE FORMS IN CAVE
IN SUMMER MONTHSDES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 21.—Ice freezes in summer, but not winter, in the Decorah Ice Cave, in Winneshiek county, Northwestern Iowa. While ice does not invariably form in the walls of the cave all summer, it is there many of the warmer months, while in the fall and early winter the walls are dry and bare.The State Geological Society's explanation of the phenomenon is that in the winter the temperature in the cave, the same as outside, goes below the freezing point. However, all moisture near the surface has been sealed in the ground and rocks by the frost, and no water finds its way into the cave. The walls of the cavern get colder and colder, and retain the cold.
When spring thaws release the water it trickles into the cave across the cold walls and then freezes. That condition continues until late in summer.
The cave is the only one of its kind known in Iowa.GEORGE TO BOX SHADELOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Young of a check to Groh by Pat Moran, manager of the victorious team. Moran was happy when he did it and so was Groh for that matter. Both of

HOLBROOK WILL SHOW FINGER PRINT WORK

Expert at Sheriff's Office Will Talk at Luncheon Tomorrow

How finger prints are made, and how they are used in identifying criminals will be explained at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at James' tomorrow. Sheriff Jackson will be luncheon chairman and Chas. Holbrook, fingerprint expert in the sheriff's office, will detail the method of making the prints.

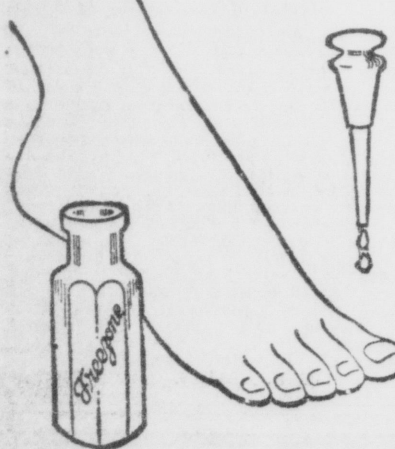

The system for detecting criminals has been developed to a point where it is absolutely reliable and has been a valuable aid in convicting criminals of every character.

Holbrook will take the prints of people present at the luncheon and will develop the marks right on the spot, explaining the lines and how comparisons of lines and marks are made to definitely determine the guilt of one suspected of being implicated in a robbery or other shady work where prints are obtainable.

Those residents of Santa Ana who may have a shady past should give the meeting a wide berth, and J. C. Metzgar declares that absence of regular attendants will be interpreted by him as meaning that they stayed away because of fear that prints of their fingers might lead to disclosures of a most unpleasant nature.

S.A.H.S. BONDS HELD ILLEGAL BY L. A. BANK

Issue Voted For Assembly Hall Purposes Rejected, Supervisors Told

Action was today expected to be taken by the board of supervisors in the matter of the rejection, by the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, of the $50,000 bond issue, recently voted for the purpose of erecting an assembly hall as a part of the Santa Ana High School group of buildings. The bonds were rejected by the bank in question for the alleged reason that under the law an election cannot be held for the voting of bonds for the building of an assembly hall.

In part, the opinion of a San Francisco firm of attorneys, counsel for the Security Trust & Savings Bank, is as follows:

"The purpose for which they (the bonds) are to be issued is stated in the order calling election to be to 'construct, furnish and equip a high school assembly hall upon the high school grounds in the City of Santa Ana,' or, as it is described in the ballot used at the election: 'For the construction of a high school district assembly hall to be erected upon the high school grounds in said city, with the necessary furniture and equipment.' The only purposes for which high school district bonds can be issued are stated in Political Code Section 1745, and they include the building or purchasing of one or more high school buildings, and the supplying of high school buildings with furniture or necessary apparatus.

"The only high school building which we find referred to in the statutes anywhere is the one defined in Political Code Sec. 1775 as being for the accommodation of the school. In other words, a school building pure and simple. Throughout the portion of the political code having reference to high schools, the word 'high school building' is invariably used to describe the building in which the high school is housed and no other building, and we are satisfied that the word is used in Sec. 1745. In our opinion, the law does not permit the bonding of a high school district to erect an assembly hall, and these bonds which state that purpose upon their face we think would not be collectible."

In part, the letter from the Security Trust & Savings Bank, accompanying the opinion of the San Francisco legal firm, is as follows:

"We very much regret that we have to advise you that our attorneys are unable to approve the issuance of $50,000 Santa Ana High School District bonds. We cannot therefore take up the bonds in view of their illegality and request that you return our cashier's check, which accompanied our bid."

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Efforts of detectives to clear up the mystery of who murdered Mrs. Elizabeth Bryan, estranged wife of George W. Bryan of Payallup, found strangled in the Mount Baker Park district yesterday morning, centered today about William Fay Ealy, 22-year-old painter, held in the city prison after his alleged admission that Mrs. Bryan had twice asked him to "take her out."

Ealy asserted he had not heard from the woman since last September. That robbery was the motive for the crime, the detectives ascertained after the body had been identified at the morgue by the husband, who said he had given Mrs. Bryan $4500 when they separated and divided their property Saturday. No trace of the money has been found.

THINK WOMAN SLAIN FOR MISSING MONEY

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—While at work on a lawn at Fort Augusta, C. F. Bover of Sunbury transferred his big silver watch from his vest to his hip pocket, and to this he attributes a possible escape from death.

A few minutes later he wanted to see what time it was, and found the timepiece stopped, the hands broken off and a big dent in the back. A high power rifle bullet was also in his pocket, and a hole in the cloth told how it went in.

Boyer said he felt no shock and heard no sound, but as the bullet fits the dent in his watch there appears to be no doubt that it was a stray shot from a rifle. The river is in full view of where he worked, and a person standing across the stream might have fired it. The police chief, who is an old 28th division man, says it is not from an army rifle.

Boyer said he felt no shock and heard no sound, but as the bullet fits the dent in his watch there appears to be no doubt that it was a stray shot from a rifle. The river is in full view of where he worked, and a person standing across the stream might have fired it. The police chief, who is an old 28th division man, says it is not from an army rifle.

MR. DODSON WARNS USERS OF CALOMEL

Says Drug Acts Like Dynamite On Liver and You Lose a Day's Work

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate. Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you—ADV.

YOU can't play with fire without getting burned.

That is what friends of Carl Valentine Hawkins, police judge of Long Beach, are telling him following the issuance of a marriage license to him today by J. M. ("Cupid") Backs, county clerk.

Hawkins, in his capacity as police judge of the beach city, has married hundreds of couples.

He took out a license to marry Marjorie Angelina Yockey, also of Long Beach. He gave his age as 33, and the bride gave hers as 20.

"I've married a good many couples," Hawkins told County Clerk Backs, "but this is the first time I've applied for a license to get married myself."

The couple were to be married at Garden Grove today.

PRETTY GIRL IN COURT IN AUTO CRASH CASE

Young Woman Whom Another Accused of Carelessness Goes to Trial

Accused by Miss Minna Smith, attractive young resident of Anaheim, of carelessness in driving an automobile, Miss Pauline C. Buhlman, a handsome young woman of La Habra, went to trial today before Justice John B. Cox.

Just preceding the commencement of the trial, J. C. Burke, attorney for Miss Buhlman, asked that the court dismiss the action on the grounds that the complaint in the case did not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action and that no offense in contravention of the state motor vehicle act was alleged. Justice Cox denied the motion to dismiss.

Miss Smith, who lives at the corner of Katella and Placentia avenues, Anaheim, was the first witness called. She said that the accident, which resulted in her swearing to the complaint against Miss Buhlman occurred on September 7th at the corner of the state highway and Orange-thorpe avenue.

Miss Smith told the court she was driving south on the state highway. She first saw Miss Buhlman on looking through several rows of orange trees to the west of the highway. Miss Buhlman, the witness said, was driving east on Orangethorpe avenue.

Miss Buhlman cut the corner on reaching the intersection, according to the witness. The defendant turned sharply north, off of Orangethorpe avenue. The two cars came together, right front wheel to right front wheel, the witness said. Miss Buhlman's car was in front of and to the right of Miss Smith's car, the latter told the court. Neither automobile was upset.

Miss Smith put on her brakes as soon as she saw that the approaching car was being driven toward her, she testified. Miss Smith said she was traveling between five and ten miles an hour at the time the two cars came together.

At the time that Miss Smith swore to the complaint, it was stated that this would not have been done had not Miss Buhlman come to Miss Smith's home and informed her (Miss Smith) that she had placed the matter in the hands of an attorney. Miss Buhlman tried to get Miss Smith to reimburse her for damages to her car, it was stated at the time.

Miss Buhlman, on the stand, admitted that she had cut the corner at the intersection of the two roads. She testified that as she reached the intersection she saw Miss Smith's car well over to the east, or left, side of the state highway. Miss Buhlman said that she turned sharply to the left, in an endeavor to avoid running into Miss Smith's car.

Many names are signed to a petition, filed with the board of supervisors today, asking the establishment of what it is proposed to name the Buena Park and Cypress Drainage District.

It is proposed to divide the district into five divisions, each one of which is to have a duly-elected director.

VICTORY FORECAST FOR ROAD SHOOTERS

It was today expected by attorneys interested in the case that when a written opinion is handed down by Superior Judge Williams in the matter of the application for a writ of habeas corpus, put in by Attorneys Eden & Koepsel on behalf of Walter Heitshusen, who was committed to jail for failure to pay a fine in connection with violating the law prohibiting the discharging of firearms on the public highways, the opinion will hold the law to be unconstitutional. If this is the case, then Orange county hunters may shoot ducks on the highways bordering gun clubs. At the hearing on the application for the writ yesterday, Attorney Eden argued that the law should be held unconstitutional on the grounds that as it appears in the state motor vehicle act, it is not germane to the subject of the act.

Following the hearing, Judge Williams took the case under advisement. It is expected that his opinion will be forthcoming in two or three days.

WELCOME HOME BELGIAN HERO AND PRETTY BRIDE

Barbecue Features Celebration of Safe Return of Gus Callens

Going to Belgium five years ago to visit his parents and claim the hand of the fair lady who had captured his heart, caught in the war and fighting through the four years of struggle, married a little over thirty days ago and home with his bride, Gus Callens and his charming Belgian wife Sunday were greeted by three hundred or more Orange county and Los Angeles friends of the Callens brothers, who assembled at the Joe Callens home to give the war hero and bride a rousing reception and welcome home.

It was a barbecue event, arranged by the fighter's brothers, Joe and Adolph, well known farmers on the Irvine ranch. Two big steers were killed for the occasion and John Cook of Anaheim, known far and wide for his expertise in barbecuing meat, was in charge of the eat end of the program of the day.

Friends of the brothers were present from many parts of Orange and Los Angeles counties. There was plenty to eat, all the fine dishes adjunct to a first class barbecue being set before the merry-makers.

After partaking of the spread, W. C. Jerome, county auditor, and "Bill" Verdin, well known paving contractor, did the honors in public remarks expressing the pleasure of the friends in again being able to greet Gus, and congratulating him upon his marriage. Impromptu sports featured the afternoon.

Gus Callens left Santa Ana five years and four months ago for his native heath in Belgium. He went over to claim the maiden who had won his heart, the winning being accomplished before he left his home to come to California, and to visit his aged parents. He was just about ready to enter upon the responsibilities of a married man and return to the States, when the war broke out.

He is a loyal Belgian, and when his country became threatened he took up arms in defense of his homeland. He fought all through the war and was in the big battles when the German hordes first overran Belgium. He escaped injury of any character. His mother was killed by the Huns and, and it is said her death was accomplished in a most brutal manner.

Harvey Saxe, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Samuel Wight, in Los Angeles, arrived in Garden Grove Saturday for a few days' visit with his sister, Mrs. C. B. Crosby. He expects to leave the latter part of the week for his home at Elgin, Illinois.

F. V. Williams, Mrs. Northrup, Mrs. Mary Edwards and Mrs. H. Hansen of Sawtelle, spent Thursday and Friday at the home of Misses Mary and Elizabeth Miller and Mrs. Hendricks. They were school mates in Illinois. They attended the Illinois picnic at Lincoln Park, Los Angeles, Saturday.

Ball Players and Fans At James' Indulge In 'Right Smart' Gastronomic Feats

By HERMAN REUTER

[It was a right lusty crew which last night in the Gold Room at James' laid into some first-class victuals in honor of Mr. Clarence Clifford Cravath (alias Gavy, alias Gaviota, alias Cactus, alias etc.,) and Mr. Ernest Johnson (alias unknown) and Mr. James Austin (alias Pepper).

For the benefit of the uninitiated, it might be mentioned that the gentlemen in whose honor we partook of oyster cocktails, salads and beef steaks are base ball players. More than that, two of them, to-wit: the aforementioned Messieurs Cravath and Johnson, are full-fledged managers, while Monsieur Austin is what might be called a pseudo manager, by virtue of the fact that at sundry times he has been compelled to assume the royal baton and wave it over the more or less unruly athletes comprising the club of the St. Louey Americans.

In order that no doubt may remain in any mind as to the status of Mr. Cravath and Mr. Johnson, we will elucidate further. The Cravath afore-said is the boss of the Philadelphia Nationals, while the said Johnson is the manager of the Salt Lake Bees. Incidentally, also parenthetically, it might be explained that the National League has other things in Philadelphia besides a ball club. For Cravath says he has seen them play.

Gastronomic Feats
Anyway, there must be something about being a baseball manager, or a player, or a fan, or a winter resident of Laguna, which is conducive to right smart gastronomic feats. Oh, boy! How we lit into the viands! W. H. James is some caterer.

Joe Burke, dean of local baseball fans, and Cravath sat at the head of the festal board. On Cravath's left was Johnson, and opposite Johnson was Austin. Burke acted as interlocutor—I should say, toastmaster.

Paul Wright was there. He sat at Johnson's left. The interlocutor—pshaw, the toastmaster—called on Paul the first thing and Paul assailed Jimmy Austin something crude. In directly, that is, for Paul delved into the dim past and called the attention of all present to the many, many years that had elapsed since the St. Louey Americans had won a pennant. It seems that the Missouri team was one of the first ball teams that Paul had ever seen in action. Anyway, Austin didn't seem to mind.

By the way, that was one of the

TIGERS TEAR UP ALGERIANS IN FAST GAME

EL MODENA, Oct. 21.—El Modena Tigers, 3; Algeria, 2.

Staging a rally in the eighth and ninth inning which netted them two runs, the El Modena Tigers beat the Algeria nine at El Modena Sunday. The Tigers are rounding into a formidable aggregation and the infield especially, composed of young players, will be very fast with a little more practice.

The game was a thriller and competition was very keen. Lan Franco was a little wild in the early part of the game, which accounted for the visitors' two runs, but pitched masterly ball toward the end. He was well received by Berger, who caught his first game of the season. Berger also made two hits. Rowland on first played a very neat game and also connected twice. "Stubby" Allen on second played a very fast, aggressive game and won the game with his two bagger in the ninth, which sent Lan Franco across the rubber. Frick at short, though playing with a smashed finger on his left hand, was there in the ninth by singling to left, which started the pitcher's undoing.

Hinrichs on third was the same old reliable. His two two-base hits were a big factor in the victory. Arambel in left, one of the most promising outfielders, with an arm of steel, was also there with his usual two baggers, which netted a score. Case in center, is an unknown possibility, but handles himself like a veteran. Newton in left played a good, steady game. The team as a whole is very fast. It has an unlimited amount of grit, jazz and pep, always fighting hard to win and don't know when it is beaten. A good example of the fighting quality of the club was shown. Going into the eighth with one run behind they tied the count in that inning and won out in the ninth with another run when two were out.

A good crowd witnessed the game and everyone went home happy, with the exception of the visitors, who went home with the satisfaction of having their money's worth.

Next Sunday the Tigers expect to play San Pedro at El Modena. The lineup was as follows: Hinrichs, third base; Berger, catcher; Frick, shortstop; Lan Franco, pitcher; Rowland, first base; Allen, second base; Case, centerfield; Arambel leftfield; Newton, rightfield.

GERMANY STILL MENACE SAYS BELGIAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—That Germany is still a menace and that it is up to the allies to see that they are "kept put" if the world doesn't want to wake up one day and find another world war on their hands, was the opinion expressed today to the United Press by Lieut. Gen. Baron Jacques of the Belgian army.

Baron Jacques, who earned fame at the battle of Dixmude, where for seven days he held the Germans at bay without budging an inch, is touring the United States with King Albert, and expects to take back home with him some lessons in military tactics as used in America.

"Might is right," is the religion of Germany from the officers and doctors down to the workers. The great war was not a war of the kaiser but a war of the German people," said Baron Jacques. "Germany still has arms. It is up to the allies to keep an eye on the Germans to see that they don't use them, particularly in aviation. I consider the Germans a race of barbarians."

"They always believe in 'Might is right.' This spirit is bred in the children from birth by their mothers. It will always be necessary to watch them. They went to war because they thought they could take Paris, Belgium, Northern France, and get riches—loot—and later divide the spoils. The German idea is to loot. They are a band of looters."

Germans Driven Back

Baron Jacques, as a colonel of a Belgian regiment, commanded the first detachment to clash with the Germans on August 4, 1914. It occurred on the bridge at Vise, near Liege. The Germans were driven back and lost their regimental flag. A Prussian colonel, and several German officers and men were killed.

"I never doubted the outcome of the war. From the start I was sure we couldn't be defeated. I was very greatly impressed by the Germans' bombastic noise. I did believe it would be the greatest conflict the world had yet seen. But I knew Belgium, knew we were right and had the greatest confidence the world would see it. The knowledge we were in the right strengthened our morale."

"When America came into the war, just the mere knowledge of it had an enormous effect on Belgium. Belgium gave a great sigh of relief. Our spirits rose by bounds while the Germans began to drop. When American soldiers entered the Belgian line to join in the conflict, words cannot express our feelings. We knew the end was near and that the outcome of the war had practically been determined."

"I have not had the experience of seeing American soldiers in action but I have seen them drilling. They are wonderful athletes. Their salute speaks their active physical strength, that they are full of courage. They came into the war at that remarkable time when it had been developed into a furnace and they jumped right in."

LAW IS PROPOSED FOR INCOME TAX TO STATE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—A personal state income tax to replace the present property tax which would be abolished, is to be proposed to the next legislature on the initiative of County Assessor E. H. Hopkins of Los Angeles county and the Los Angeles Rent Payers' Association.

Hopkins declares that such a law will reach the alleged rent profiteers by getting at their actual incomes and will eliminate much of the uncertainty which now exists in making personal property assessments.

AROUND THE FOUR BOUNDARIES OF UNITED STATES, NEARING HOME

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rousselle at Grand Canyon, Meet Belgian Royal Party

Around the rim of the United States, but not in an airplane, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rousselle of Newport Beach are now nearing home, having been at the Grand Canyon last week, where they had the pleasure of meeting the Belgian royal party, returning east from California. When the Rousselles arrive home they will have completely encircled the four boundaries of the United States in a trip which has consumed about two months.

Going first up the coast to Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Rousselle took in points of interest there, then returning via Seattle, they stopped off a week at Yellowstone Park, Chicago, and a couple of days each at St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Niagara Falls on their way to Boston and Worcester, Mass. From Boston they drove in a Chevrolet car 1376 miles to Montreal, Quebec, and St. Anne De Beaupre, going via the Blue mountains of Maine and New Hampshire and returning through the White mountains, which Rousselle declares is one of the prettiest drives he ever took.

Trip Up Potomac

Returning to Boston, the Rousselles boarded ship and sailed 500 miles south to Newport News and Norfolk, Va., taking in the shipbuilding plants and points of historical interest, then an enjoyable 200-mile moonlight trip up the Potomac to Washington, D. C. in Washington, Rousselle called upon Congressman Osborne and took him to dinner, and also took occasion to thank Osborne for his efforts in behalf of Newport Harbor. One afternoon was spent with Osborne in the senate gallery, listening to the senators' debate on the peace amendment. The Newport man also called at Congressman Kettner's headquarters, but Kettner was in San Diego and he did not get to meet him.

"We had a very pleasant four days in Washington, which had changed so much since we were there five years ago," writes Rousselle from El Tovar Grand Canyon, Ariz., under date of October 16. "From there we went to New Orleans and spent a week there, and found this old city one of the most interesting places we had seen. It is spending millions on its harbor and is third in the volume of exports in the United States."

Visit Grand Canyon

"Our route from there took us through El Paso, where we stopped a day, and then to Albuquerque and here—the Grand Canyon, which is a sight that poets and artists say they cannot paint nor describe and do it justice."

"We have with us today the king and queen and prince of Belgium, who arrived this morning, and through Governor Campbell of Arizona we had the pleasure of being introduced to them, and I was quite surprised to find them both talkative and willing to meet the people. We talked French to them, which seemed to please them. There are twenty-five in the party. We also met Alma Gluck and her husband who are here, or have been here, and also the famous Squimerton, the Mutt and Jeff cartoonist, who is here, so you will have to make allowances for my hat having become too small. The king and his party ate in the public dining room with the rest of the guests here, and are now out for a trip."

NO SUGAR SHORTAGE SAYS LYNDOL YOUNG

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—"There is no sugar shortage in Southern California and any rise in the price by the refiners is without cause except their desire to make an unjustified profit," was the statement made yesterday by Lyndol L. Young of the United States District Attorney's office and legal adviser of the Fair Price committee. "The rise is a result of an understanding between the beet refiners and the cane men, and I expect the price to soar until a determined public decides that it shall go no higher," he continued.

DEHYDRATED STEAK IS PRODUCED BY CHEMIST

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 21.—A. E. Smol, a chemist with a packing company here, is experimenting with a view to reducing the high cost of living. His latest experiment is with beefsteak. By a process of dehydration—drawing all the water out of the meat—the steak is in a good state of preservation and is capable of being kept almost indefinitely. When it is desired to bring the steak back to a condition of freshness all that is necessary, Mr. Smol says, is to soak it in water. The meat is said never to lose its odor of fresh meat and it is as tough as sole leather when dehydrated.

GREAT INCREASE IN STANFORD STUDENTS

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Oct. 21.—An increase of nearly one thousand students over last year's record is shown in the registration figures given out today by the university offices. These figures also show an increase of several hundred students over any previous year. Students numbering 2429 enrolled this year, while the fall term last year showed an even 1500.

Regardless of the fact that 856 women applied for entrance this term, the old regulation that no more than five hundred women students should be received was strictly observed. Over a hundred and fifty men were also turned away.

A proportion of "four-to-one" has now taken the place of the traditional three men to one woman students at Stanford.

WIDENING MAIN IS FAVORED BY FORMER CITY TRUSTEE

W. L. Grubb Advises Council of His Views on Proposed Improvements

"As to paving, I have some very decided ideas about how it should be paid for. If it is your intention to make North Main street a highway for the purpose of bearing the greater part of all the trucking traffic that comes into the city, and to lay, as has been suggested by the city engineer, a reinforced six-inch concrete base with two-inch asphalt wearing surface, all at the expense of the frontage owners, then I shall object very vigorously."

"As to the proportion of the expense of paving North Main to be borne by the owners of the frontage, I believe that in all fairness the owners should be required to pay an amount equal to the cost of paving any other street to carry ordinary traffic—and no more. The cost in excess of that should be borne by the city."

These are extracts from a letter received by the city council from W. L. Grubb, who owns 450 feet frontage on Main street, which was read at the meeting of the city council meeting last night.

The members of the council have been making personal inquiry from property owners on the street as to their preference for the character of improvement. A questionnaire has been left with owners who were not at home when a council member called, and Grubb answered by letter, as he deemed the questionnaire too brief to permit of qualifying his answers and giving his views.

Elimination of the P. E. tracks on the street, the maintaining of a single line, widening of the street by eliminating the parking and the character of pavement are covered by the questionnaire.

Wants Real Job Done
Grubb declares that he is against any half-way measures. He wants a job that when finished will be something that not only the owners of frontage, but the entire city will be proud of.

"We have a bridge at the entrance of this main highway that is in every way in harmony with a first-class city, and I should like to see the scheme of improvement for North Main street continued along the same impressive lines," he writes.

"If the P. E. is agreeable to a one-track roadbed, laid with Trilby rails, that suits me."

"The Dr. Ball plan of cutting out the curb, thus widening the street that much and making it as nearly uniform in width as conditions will permit, also satisfies me. It seems the only feasible plan to widen the street. As to the elimination of parking and trees, I feel that the conditions on North Main street are somewhat different from those on Broadway and many other streets."

USES COMMON YELLOW MUSTARD FOR CHEST COLDS AND SORE THROAT

Old Fashioned Simple Home Remedy Much Used by Doctors and Nurses for Inflammation, Congestion,

Aches, Pains and Swellings Mustard, real yellow mustard, the kind you use at home, is being used more than ever to banish distress and misery and free mankind from agony and suffering.

Not very long ago people used to make yellow mustard into a paste, spread it on a cloth and apply it to that part of the body where pain or inflammation was present.

It surely did the work it was expected to do, but it was messy and bothersome and often blistered the skin.

People still use yellow mustard when they get a cold in the chest or have pleurisy, lumbago or rheumatic pains and swellings.

But nowadays they buy this yellow mustard in condensed form all ready for use something like 30 cents a box and find it much better, cheaper and cleaner than mustard plasters.

This yellow mustard preparation, which is known to millions as Begy's Mustardine is sold at drugstores all over America and one box will do the work of 50 mustard plasters and it cannot blister the tenderest skin. Begy's Mustardine is the original mustard preparation used to take the place of blistering mustard plasters and is known among druggists as the quickest painkiller on earth.

It will pay you to keep a box of Begy's Mustardine in the house, for it is good for so many ailments that you will need it often.

Just rub it on, that's all you have to do and headache, backache, earache and toothache will disappear almost instantly.

Don't fail to use it for neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, gout and rheumatic pains and swellings.

You will quickly find that there is nothing so good for sprains and strains, sore muscles, stiff neck and cramps in leg.

Heat eases pain and Begy's Mustardine made of real yellow mustard with other helpful ingredients added contains more concentrated, non-blistering heat than can be found in any box the same size.

Just try a 30-cent box—you'll praise it to the skies as millions are doing every day. Always in the yellow box.—Adv.

popular indoor sports of the evening—rubbing it into Austin for having played baseball so long. Why, if one who had never seen Austin had listened to some of the "kidding" that was indulged in last night at Austin's expense, one would think that Austin was a doddering patriarch. With hoary whiskers three feet long—and an athlete who had to be taken onto the diamond in a wheel chair and who had to walk to his position on crutches. Nothing of the tall, boys, nothing of the tall—Austin is as lively an athlete as any of them.

Paul Wright Speaks

But to return to Paul Wright. He told of one time while he was stationed at a place in France where there were about 50,000 colored troops and about 5000 white men. He was acting as umpire one day during a game between two colored teams. It would seem that in the course of the proceedings certain differences of opinion arose between the opposing sides. A conference was called and in a few minutes the ball ground had been cleared. Shortly the colored gentlemen reappeared on the scene, each one with his bayonet buckled on. "All right, white man," announced the players, "we is ready to go ahead wif de game."

Paul Knauf was at the banquet. It wouldn't have been a regular Gavvy banquet if he hadn't been there and told his story about the time when he participated in certain little financial negotiations during a game at Anaheim, years ago. It seems that the team which Knauf accompanied to Anaheim as a fan and onlooker had Otto Young, brother of George (Husky) Young, as a pitcher. Otto had all kinds of smoke. One of the details of the financial negotiations in question was to the effect that this pitcher agreed on a signal with Knauf by means of which the latter was to learn when the heaver intended to send an opposing batter to first base by the "bean" route. Knauf was on the side lines. A batter came up.

The pitcher put his hand up to his head and scratched it, which was the signal that had been agreed upon. Knauf casually mentioned, for the benefit of any interested party who might be near, that he believed the batter would get to first. One of the bystanders interposed a demurrer to this and in a second the first of the little financial negotiations had been consummated. The pitcher wound up, let drive, and—bingo, the batter experienced the blow, somewhere on his anatomy, which entitled him to take his base. Sundry silver not hitherto in the pocket of Knauf now reposed there.

The next batter to come up was M. W. Everhardy, then a butcher at Anaheim. Everhardy was a man of beef and brawn—no pun intended. Young scratched his head once more and shortly there was a murmur of conversation on the sidelines, with Knauf doing a large share of the conversing. Once more the mighty Young wound up and turned 'er loose. The missile smote Everhardy a terrible wallop on one side of the posterior portion of his trousers. The effect was such as to cause Knauf a moment of exceeding mental stress, for Everhardy merely put his hand thoughtfully to the spot which had been massaged by the tail and stood at the plate ready for Young's next offering. It was not until Everhardy yielded to the insistence of the umpire and took his base that Knauf began to breathe more freely.

Cravath Talks

Considerable has been said, so far, of the talks made by others than Cravath, at the banquet. Well, as a speech maker, Cravath is a corking good ball player and manager. At any rate, Cravath did his durndest. He put no frills on his talk, but what he said hit the target. He told of the ups and downs of the managerial side of baseball. Being the leader of a ball club is far from a sinecure—that must be evident to anyone who heard Gavvy last night. There are plenty of humorous incidents which come to the knowledge of those on the inside—incidents of which the general public seldom becomes aware, and it is these relieving moments which act as a sort of counter irritant for both players and manager.

The owner of a club, Cravath said, cannot understand why it is that his organization, after it has won two or three games in a row, cannot keep on winning. Called on the carpet for explanations, the manager cannot praise his athletes too highly, for fear that he owner will expect too much. On the other hand, he cannot admit that he has a team of dubs.

Case of Dog Eat Dog

"And so it goes," said the Philly leader. "It is a case of dog eat dog. The one who eats the fastest is the one who gets away. Handling ball players is not like handling other men. They are like prima donnas—temperamental and full of whims. One of them hurts his finger slightly and informs you that he will be unable to play for two or three days. There is one thing sure and that is that I don't intend to let them get me down. I don't intend to get any more gray hairs from worrying."

Ernie Johnson and Jimmy Austin both gave brief, sincere talks. Both joined with Cravath in expressing deep appreciation of the reception accorded them. Johnson said in effect that as manager of the Salt Lake club he would do his level best to return it a winner next season. All three men were enthusiastic in their praise of Southern California, and especially of Orange county, as a region for ball players to spend the winter season.

The talks were informal, but it was not until all the speakers had responded to toasts that there was a "loosening up" and the three guests of honor began to indulge in reminiscences. Many an interesting anecdote that has never found its way into print was related by the three veterans.

Tells Rules for Phillies

Cravath said that he did not believe in many rules for his ball club, but that there was one rule upon which he would absolutely insist, namely, that every player must be in his hotel by midnight. He said he intended to introduce a system of automatic fines. He will require his players to report, in uniform, at 10 o'clock every morning, and failure to do so will result in an automatic fine of $5, to go into the "jackpot." Tardiness on the field in the afternoon also will result in a fine.

Cravath and Johnson were both agreed that the secret of hitting is to study the pitchers.

"There never was a pitcher yet who did not give himself away at some time during his wind-up," said Cravath. "If you watch and study a pitcher you can soon find out what he is going to throw, I believe."

Ty Cobb's success as a batter is due entirely to his study of the mannerisms of pitchers, Cravath and Johnson agreed.

BARTERING PLACES

Back in the centuries the shops or stores you know started in something on the order of public bartering places.

What has taken their place is the modern store, where you can buy just what you like when you want it. You don't have to buy a year's supply all at once as of old. The storekeeper keeps it for you, and you buy only what you need as you need it.

The merchants and the manufacturer and advertising have brought this useful state of affairs about for your convenience. You don't even have to go to see everything and every shop to make your choice nowadays.

The advertisers relieve you of this trouble, by bringing their goods to you in the advertisements. Before the days of the development of advertising, you would have had to visit a dozen or a score of places, weigh and choose, and then not be sure you had made the best selection. Advertising has made it possible to know just what will interest you and be of value to you.

Just think what this means; You order now without worry or trouble because advertising tells you about the things you want to buy before you buy them.

Read the advertisements and think about them with this in mind. They are to serve you.

Brace Up

Stomach trouble often makes one despondent. It hits a man where he lives, saps his strength and energy and makes him feel like giving up. necessary and most desirable on this street, the loss of the trees seem inevitable. However, for by growing beautiful lawns with flowers and plants—in this way giving it a distinction and beauty not seen on streets where trees are the main and often the only ornament.

"The system of ornamental lighting should be estimated as nearly as may be, so that the people would know what they might expect to dig up in the way of expense. Personally, I would like to know what I'd have to dig up for the purpose. I would favor the ornamental lights on a reasonable basis of expense.

Traffic Grows Greater

"The bus and freight traffic has grown up so recently and rapidly that few plans could be made for handling it, but the time has come when some adjustments must be to care for it in a way reasonable to all parties concerned.

"It certainly is not fair to the street builders or the railroads to let this matter drift along without some regulation. Heavy freight traffic is destroying the paving on many of our streets that when built were not intended to bear such loads as are now being hauled over them. What percentage of original cost and upkeep this new industry should pay toward these roadbeds is a problem—one that naturally would be regulated by license."

All the members of the council have not as yet "worked" the portion of the street assigned to each in an effort to get the sentiment of the property owners. The council is determined to do something in the way of improving the street, but will not attempt any construction work until next spring. The preliminaries will be taken care of in the meantime, so that when the winter rains have passed there will be no unnecessary delay in getting the work under way.

Parking Undecided

The council is still wrestling with the parking ordinance. It was up again last night for consideration and again was referred back to the city attorney. Walter Biddick, representing the Orange County Ignition Works, and Deputy District Attorney Menton, representing the Meyer apartments, were before the council with reference to the parking ordinance. As drafted the ordinance provides for parking cars on the angle on forty-foot streets on the west side of north and south streets and parallel with the curb on the east side. The gentlemen were present to see if reservations or changes could not be made in front of properties represented by them, both being located on Spurgeon street. Greenleaf and Chapman were appointed a committee to investigate suggested changes.

For Truck and Trailer

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for a ton and a half truck and a two-ton trailer, chassis only. The city is going to take over the collection of garbage on the 1st of December and purchase of the truck and trailer is to be made for use of the department. Men recently have been in the city investigating the garbage situation with reference to the establishment of a plant here for handling it and making fertilizer. Indications are that revenue will be secured from what is now wastage to the city and costing $300 per month to have it hauled away to pay the cost of hauling.

A resolution re-establishing the grade of First street west from the east city limits to Artesia street was passed. This is the first step in the contemplated repair of East First street.

Want Light Moved

Request that a street light recently installed at the corner of Pacific and Sixth streets be moved 200 feet on Sixth street was referred to the street committee with power to act.

Request of the board of education that janitors of the schools of the city be appointed special police without pay, was referred to the police commission.

Petition for rock and oil paving on Parton from Hickey to Washington was granted. Wells and Bressler have the contract.

Request of Hoozier Vulcanizing Works for permission to maintain "no parking" signs in front of its place of business on West Third street was denied. The council took the position that if this request was granted it would be besieged with similar applications, resulting in the elimination of a great deal of parking space.

Petition of property owners for graveling an eighteen-foot strip on Highland from Polver to Bristol was granted. The city to grade the street and the property owners to pay for graveling.

City Marshal was instructed to enforce the ordinance controlling the height of awnings. The ordinance specifies that the frame shall be eight feet above the sidewalk, with a clear area of seven feet. Complaint has been made about many low awnings in the city.

Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

Mrs. H. E. Timberlake, Indiana, Pa., had pneumonia a few years ago and it left her throat and lungs in a weak condition and that she has since suffered a great deal from bronchitis. She writes, "I learned of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy through a neighbor who had used it with good results. I purchased a bottle of it and was glad to find that it relieved my cough at once."—Adv.

Making a Purely vegetable Medicine

1875—1919

In 1875, Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., gathered and dried the roots and herbs which she used in the now famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, from the fields and forests,—then steeped them on her kitchen stove and filled a few bottles at a time, to alleviate the suffering of her women friends, neighbors and acquaintances, and the success of this medicine was unparalleled.

After 44 Years

These illustrations show the present method by which vast quantities of this well-known remedy are produced and from exactly the same kind of roots and herbs used by Mrs. Pinkham in the beginning.

First—The various herbs used are of the finest quality, and gathered at the time their medicinal strength is the highest.

Second—After the herbs are properly ground and mixed, the medicinal properties are extracted by soaking in large stone jars, covered.

Third—Then the extract is drained through percolators, acting somewhat like a coffee percolator.

Fourth—To insure a thoroughly pure medicine, it is carefully pasteurized by heat in special apparatus, and bottled hot.

Throughout the entire process, from the crude herb to the finished medicine in bottle, cleanliness and exactness are the watch-words.

The Reliability of Testimonials Guaranteed

The testimonials published by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company come to them unsolicited. Never knowingly have they published an untruthful letter, never is a letter published without the written consent of the writer. The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness. It is easy to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; and their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

Dormant Love for Music Awakened, Tarkio Becomes Famed Convention Center

By CLARENCE GUSTLIN

TARKIO was a very ordinary, small town with very ordinary, small town habits of living. In other words, its people had a sense of self-satisfaction and complacency that was decidedly symptomatic of mental, social and civic stagnation. Tarkio was content to live by bread alone and be bread alone. Tarkio existed for quite a number of years.

But Tarkio had one citizen to whom the idea of mere existence was intolerable. He was the village schoolmaster and he possessed the forward looking instinct of the true educator.

But in looking about he found no aspiration, no vision, no initiative, no imagination in his fellow townspeople. These were strangely dormant, and what sparks of soul he could discern were barely kept alive on the husks of cheap movies and country vaudeville.

The situation was desperate and demanded immediate remedy if Tarkio were to long survive.

The schoolmaster's first thought was of music. Music should be the magic art to revive the perishing soul of Tarkio! He let one friend and then another into his precious secret but each in turn scoffed at the idea. Who would buy a ticket to a musical concert in Tarkio? Who indeed would give if tickets were free and risk having to stay up until 10 o'clock at night? Such were the encouraging responses to his proposal that Tarkio have a concert.

But Mr. Schoolmaster and his pet idea were not thus easily overthrown. He began negotiations with a musical friend to come to Tarkio's little school house on a certain night to play. A program of music such as Tarkio had never dreamed existed. Meantime he made a personal canvass of the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker and everybody else in Tarkio and succeeded, by dint of appeal to curiosity, in extracting a goodly number of dimes for cardboard bearing the glaring inscription:

ADMIT ONE
Soul-Inspiring Musical Concert
at
The School House
Oct. 27, 19—

The old and young of Tarkio were promptly on hand. In fact they were nearly all an hour early, for considerable anticipation and excitement grew out of the rumors that spread and magnified themselves in true small-town style about the "soul-inspiring concert" which the schoolmaster promised to provide.

At last the breathless moment of the artist's appearance came. The silence was tangible, the attention, tense. Long arrested auditory nerves suddenly sprang into action with rapture threatening speed.

The music was not imbibed, it was devoured. Nothing remained. There were no fragments to gather up. The artist gave all he had yet Tarkio's unsuspected appetite was but whetted for more.

The old schoolmaster suddenly found his barometer of popularity taking an unsuspected rise. Even his pupils began to ask him if he had any more friends who could "play music" and whether he thought they would come to Tarkio sometime?

Then on Monday morning the preacher came to urge another concert soon because this one had helped the singing in his service more than anything before ever had. And he also wondered whether the Ladies' Aid Society could not help sell tickets to the next concert and receive for themselves a part of the proceeds which should go to the support of the city orphan they had adopted.

Things were looking up for the visionary schoolmaster who chuckled as he noticed ambitions creeping into the social fabric of sleepy, plodding Tarkio.

He did know some other folk who could play music and he sent them a private S. O. S. call. Tarkio had her second concert and its success was greater than that of the first. Soon came a third and a fourth and Tarkio's first concert season closed.

The foretaste was too good to forget. The next season found Tarkio laying plans for a six-concert season with graduated ticket prices for season tickets. The course triumphed under the efficient management of the schoolmaster and his voluntary aides. A surplus actually existed when accounts were balanced and this formed an all-important sinking fund which gave added enthusiasm for next season's plans.

Takes on Some Airs

By this time the country people round about Tarkio began to look upon the village as something other than a place to take their butter and eggs. Tarkio began to take on a few airs. The merchants brushed up their wares and began to display their freshest stocks. They noticed a demand for more and better things.

The banquet which the townspeople gave to the first visiting artists of Tarkio's third musical season was a brilliant affair. Everybody was in his best Sunday-go-to-meetin' dress and up-to-the-minute table manners were in order to properly take care of the many new viands on the menu. Tarkio's vestimentary and gustatory tastes were being elevated along with Tarkio's musical sensibilities. The business men gave each other a sly wink and began to figure their profits in advance.

The traveling men who made Tarkio in their rounds proved to be excellent advertisers of the new awakening of the once drowsy village. Whether on trains, in hotels or when warming up their prospective customers the conversation always drifted easily to the sudden rejuvenation of Tarkio, of how this or that big musical event was soon to take place and of how it was exciting the interest of towns for miles around. All roads began to lead to Tarkio as soon as Tarkio began to express herself through music with its unfailing magnetic qualities. And many a faithful pilgrim to Tarkio's shrine remained to take permanent abode and to imbibe her stimulating atmosphere.

Regular Concert Hall

The little old school house was no longer adequate for the productions which came to or emanated from Tarkio. A regular concert hall soon materialized to play the role of supply to Tarkio's demand. Fortunately this was constructed with a regard for future needs of expansion—and the needs soon arose.

It was not long ere Tarkio boasted a municipal band, which not only played its weekly home concerts and programs for special occasions of all sorts but which, on its trips to neighboring communities proved to be quite the finest advertising factor. Tarkio had ever hoped for. Often the big Choral Club, accompanied by the home orchestra, would make similar excursions into less fortunate towns, always to receive an ovation and be rewarded with appreciation as genuine as it was demonstrative.

Tarkio soon became a convention center. Its music festivals and pageants gave it increasing fame. Today Tarkio's name is familiar to thousands upon thousands who know it as the little city which liveth not by bread alone, but whose soul is bountifully nourished by the gifts and culture of the greatest artists, the finest symphony orchestra and ensemble organizations that bring with them the transcendent thoughts and ideals of the master musicians of today and yesterday.

Oh, little soul-inspiring musical concert of the faithful, visionary schoolmaster! How have you grown! What comfort and joy and success have you brought to the hearts of weary toilers, to those whose lives were otherwise so dull and commonplace! Verily, you have served Beauty and Truth, the celestial guardians of men's souls.

Then blessed by thou Tarkio and thrice blessed the comrade hamlets, towns and cities that follow in thy glorious path!

WORKMAN BURGLAR IS SHOWN ABOUT HOUSE

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 21.—Burglars always have been the pet aversion of Margaret Beasley, eight years of age. She admits she is "just scared to death" of a burglar.

When it was too hot to play Margaret slipped into her nightie and crept up on the lounge in the guest room to rest.

Looking up from the wall paper sample book with which she was amusing herself, Margaret beheld a strange man standing by the dresser. He wore a workman's black cap and carried some electric light cords.

"Oh," he said pleasantly, "I'm the electric light man. I've come to inspect the lights and I got sort of mixed up in the rooms."

"I'll show you the way," volunteered Margaret, and she jumped up, slipped on a tiny kimono and escorted the electric light man all through the upstairs. Now the police are looking for the man with a black cap and two electric light cords and Margaret's family call her "the burglar's pal."

REBELLION IN STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once ends Indigestion and Sour, Acid Stomach

Lumps of undigested food cause pain. If your stomach is in revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gasses and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the pain, acidity, indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest most harmless stomach antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.—Advt.
